Indications for a Notable Field of Starters in Thursday's Big Race at Sheepshead Bay-Crack Two-Year-Olds to Meet Other Stake Events for This Week.

There are two races to be run this week that are attracting the attention of turfmen on both sides of the Atlantic. The historic Suburban Handicap at a mile and a quarter will be decided at Sheepshead Bay on Thurs-day and the $25,000 American Derby at a mile and a haif will be run at Washington Park, Chicago, on Saturday. It is believed that at least sixteen horses will go to the post for the Suburban, and that the field will be the best and most evenly matched on record for this big event.

W. C. Whitney's four-year-old Goldsmith, by Meddler--Kildeer, who has been especially prepared for the Suburban by John W. Rogers, is already the favorite. Although he has not indulged in a race this year and his best work over the Suburban distance is said to have been 2:14, done on Thursday last without the slightest overexertion, Goldsmith is confidently expected to carry the "light blue, brown cap" to the front, just as Blackstock did in the Excelsior and Gunfire did in the Metropolitan handicaps. It was just after the close of the Saratoga meeting last year that Goldsmith, with a 120-pound boy in the Baddle, ran a phenomenal trial at the Spa. He covered a mile and a quarter in 2:07 and it was decided then and there to point him for the Suburban. Mr. Whitney's Gunfire and Leonora Loring are both eligible, but it is the general belief that Goldsmith will be the only representative of this powerful stable. The Meddier colt will carry 116 pounds and will be ridden by either Burns or Redfern.

Turf Notes. NEWBURGH, June 14.—The new Washington Driving Park Association, successor to the old Newburgh Driving Park Association, will formally open its grounds this week and offer $3,000 in premiums for the four days' races. It has 178 entries for the several events. Among the improvements to the track and grounds is the addition to the grand stand of several private boxes which have all been sold at a premium to the leading citizens of the town. An innovation on the opening day will be the attendance of school teachers and school children by invitation of the association.

ITHACA, June 14.—Cornell's crew prospects were materially improved to-day when it was announced that Freddie Briggs, who was graduated from Cornell in the class of 198 and is the most famous of all strokes, would go to Poughkeepsie with the Cornell crews and would assist Courtney in the coaching. Briggs stroked the Cornell crews twice to victory against Yale and Harvard and knows the ins and outs of the Courtney stroke. Trainer Rogers said on Saturday that possibly he might start a three-year-old in the Suburban and in this case Irish Lad would be the three-year-old.

The work of Irish Lad was much the best of the celebrated trio, for he covered a mile and a quarter in 2:13, whereas Goldsmith's work was 2:16. On the other hand it is stated that Irish Lad will be shipped on Tuesday to Chicago over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

City Bank was in rare form yesterday morning and covered a mile and a quarter very easily in 2:39. The work was lauded by experts who saw the horse at work and a good many were surprised, as they thought the son of Meddler and Money Box was incapable of working such a brilliant trial. William Lakeland sent Heno over the Suburban distance a mile and a quarter at Brighton Beach in 2:10 very easily. Heno likes the heavy going and it is said could have worked much faster if his trainer desired.

TALK OF CONSOLIDATING BIG LEAGUES UNTIMELY.

Rivalry Created by Existence of Two Major Bodies Stimulates Interest in National Game-Fine Road Record of New York Nationals—Americans Brace Up.

One of the truest things President Pulliam ever said was that this was not a fitting time to talk of baseball consolidation. The politics of the game are prominent enough between seasons; and besides there has been entirely too much politics in the last year or two. Since peace was made the national game has been getting back to its normal condition, in which the play on the diamond and the players hold the centre of the stage rather than magnates. But now comes untimely talk of consolidation to roughen the smooth surface the baseball waters and put players in the air.

Ban Johnson, at the peace meeting, it is anderstood, declared with vehemence that the American League was against consolidation when that subject was broached to him. He seems to have undergone a strong change of front since. There has not been any loud cry for one twelve-club league by the general run of club owners on either side. The most interest in baseball has been with two bis leagues in existence and on a friendly footing. Their existence and rivalry stimulates interest. This year is a case in point. Twelve-club leagues have been found to be unwieldly. The proportion of weak clubs is too great, and those make a drag on the race. It is said there are not enough ball players of the first class to go around for two big leagues. There are only four more teams in two eight-club leagues than there would be in one twelve-club league. Demand creates supply, and what the larger demand of sixteen clubs does in unearthing players more than offsets any lack of players for the sixteen clubs.

However, if baseball consolidation is to be brought about it will be time enough to talk about it want the playing season is over, keeping the negotiations in the background until that time. There was more than one baseball man concerned who did not know anything of the matter until it was made public last week; which shows that the project has not been taken up generally; and until the plan gets further along than it is at present the consolidation talk is premature and ill-advised.

The New York Nationals will return home this week with a remarkable road record—nine games won, three lost. They won a majority of games out West and the only series they lost was to the Pittsburgs, who are playing in pretty nearly invincible form on their own grounds. The pace has told on Chicago, but the New Yorks have shown no sign of weakening under the strain. One evidence of the strong, evenly-balanced work of the Harlemites is the showing they have made against every team they have faced. They have not won ten games from one club, as Pittsburg has from Chicago has from St. Louis, or nine games from one game from one weak team, as Chicago has from St. Louis and three from Chicanati, but have been playing consistently against them all. They have not lost a majority of games to any club; with MeGraw's Men Hit Hard, but Taylor's Wildness Is Fatal.

CINCINNATI, June 14—The New Yorks batted Sutthoff hard to-day, but found Tay-lor's wildness too great a handleap. Taylor gave six bases on balls in his four innings on the slab and made a costly wild pitch, all of which was turned to a good account by the Reds, who got in a couple of good hits at the opportune time. Dunn showed up weak at third base and several Hed runs trickled through that opening. Sutthoff was steady and it was this and good fielding by his mates that saved him. New Yorkers were on base in every inning except the second, so that Sutthoff had few easy mo-second, so that Sutthoff had few easy moments.

Corcoran was a star at short, and when he soared into the air and pulled down Dunn's line fly with his bare hand, the crowd halled him king of the field for the time being. The play saved the game, for McGann was on third at the time. New York's runs were nearly all the fruit of solid drives. Bresnahan and Mertes batted in one in the first; in the fourth Mertes's double and Gilbert's single were good for two runs, aided by a double steal and Bergen's wild throw.

The situation was critical in the ninth. McGann started off with a single and Mertes struck out. Babb dropped a safe one in right and McGann reached third, whence he scored on Dunn's fly to Kelley. McGraw batted for Gilbert, but he hit the first ball pitched out to Kelley, and the game was lost to the leaders.

ROWING.

Sculler Titus Beats a Steam Launch on the Harlem River-His Rejection at Henley.

It was rather a dull day among the oarsmen on the Harlem River yesterday and only the crews with the real racing spirit ventured out. In the morning the rain came down plentifully, but two eights braved a wetting to get in a bit of practice. These were the junior eights of the "Mets" and Dauntless and they rowed about five miles without a break. For a club which was generally re-garded as about due to merge into a dancing organization the "Mets" are doing wonders. work and can be seen on the river every afternoon of the week. The junior crew will row in the People's Regatta at Philadelphia on July 4.

In the afternoon when the rain ceased and the fog lifted a few scullers took their racing craft for a little work. C. S. Titus of the Atalanta Boat Club was out for a pipe opener, and he showed great form by beating a sixknot steam launch which went up the river. Very little sympathy seems evident for Titus along Scullers' Row on account of his Henley rejection. A prominent oarsman said yesterday.

along Scullers' Row on account of his Henley rejection.

A prominent oarsman said yesterday, "This question about the Englishmen being atraid of Titus is all rot and had he crossed this year he would have been defeated as easily as last year. Titus may blame all this trouble on his own actions. Since he came on this river he has been at loggerheads with everybody. Mind you, he has done well and for a stranger has managed to get a good deal of notoriety here and a first-class trip to England into the bargain, but he has given the Harlem oarsmen nothing in return. When down at his home in New Orleans he was in similar trouble all the time because he was too talkative. Had Titus possessed sense enough to train and row his races in a quiet, dignified, unassuming manner, like a real champion, everybody would respect and feel proud of him, and not a soul would have prepared an axe or hammer for his scalp. About this matter of criticising the Henley stewards and their action in refusing our entries I think we are too hasty. Do Americans want to dictate to the whole world how they shall manage their affairs. Do English people ever try to dictate to us how we shall manage our rowing matters here. No, but we want to set new rules of amateurism for Henley and expect that any old Tom, Dick or Harry who might have the indorsement of Mayor Low or the National Association of Amnteur Oarsmen should be acceptable to them. At Henley the rules are there and they stick to them through all time, and this persistence and the definition of a high-class anateur is one of the great characteristics of this water carnival. If their rules don't suit us why don't e stay athorne?

The Nassau Boat Club has organized a four gig crew which will be seen carrying the blue and white in the racing events in future. Jack Smith had the boys out yesterday and they tipped holes in the water for a few miles on the Speedway course.

The neces of all Harlem oarsmen not actively employed yesterday was the Ravenswood Club Boat. The club had a general openi

HANDBALL.

Timothy Twohill Shows His Speed-Mike Egan Wins Practice Games.

There was some first-class handball a Cashman's court, 131st street and Amsterdam avenue, yesterday, with Timothy Twohill, who is to meet Egan for the championship of the world, as the star attraction. The Irish champion, with C. O'Leary as a partner, played a seven-game rubber against P. Roache and Con Cashman, and it was the first time since his arrival here that Twohill has been seen to extend himself. He has what in Ireland is termed the "handball eye." that is he looks at the ball as if he saw it through a field glass and his vision is therefore seemingly concentrated as if he were looking through a single lens.

No matter how fast the ball travels toward Twohill he catches it as easily as if it was Twohill he catches it as easily as it it was large as a beer barrel. Then he can hit back handed, which is considered the acme stroke for scientific exponents of the game. Out of the seven games Twohill and his partner won four. In the last game it was a score of "20 all," but the Corkonian drove an eye twister to Cashman and won the game.
